Dear Adrian,

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the RBCC, I would like to thank you and Vladimir Borozdin once again for your excellent presentation at the RBCC St. Petersburg International Property and Construction Forum last week. The theme of business parks is becoming very important in the major cities of Russia, and they offer particular advantages in St. Petersburg with its as yet ill-developed transport infrastructure. I hope that your words set some people thinking.

I am pleased to say that we received a great deal of positive feedback from delegates and speakers alike, and we will for sure be running a similar event next year. We would not be able to put on events of this kind without the support and presence of some of the UK's and Russia's most important and reputable companies.

You, and your colleagues, have been a pleasure to work with throughout, and I am sure that we will be working on similar projects in the future. I hope that the Forum provided some good extra profile for you, and that you and your colleagues made some interesting contacts at the event, which you will be able to develop further.

May I take the opportunity to wish you a good working week, continued success in the Russian market, and a long and pleasant summer!

With best regards and wishes,

Chris Gilbert
